

Chapter 11: The Signaling (or Cueing) Principle

Based upon our reading, please select the option for each question that most closely aligns to the signaling principle.

 scottcopley241@gmail.com (not shared) Switch account

Question 1

What is the Signaling Principle

- The signaling principle is a concept in instructional design that refers to the use of visual cues to draw attention to important information in a learning environment.
- The signaling principle is a concept in instructional design that refers to the use of visual cues to draw attention to important information in a learning environment.
- There are several ways to apply the signaling principle in instructional design, including using color, font size, and icons to highlight key information.

Option 1

What is the Signaling Principle

- The signaling principle is a concept in instructional design that refers to the use of visual cues to draw attention to important information in a learning environment.
- The signaling principle is a concept in instructional design that refers to the use of visual cues to draw attention to important information in a learning environment.
- There are several ways to apply the signaling principle in instructional design, including using color, font size, and icons to highlight key information.

Option 2

Question 2

What's next?

- Tour
The University of North Carolina at Charlotte
- Shadow
Shadowing an expert
- Apply
Applying the knowledge and skills
- Attend
Attending a conference or meeting
- Deploy
Deploying the knowledge and skills

Option 1

What are your next steps?

- The next steps in the process are to...
- The next steps in the process are to...
- The next steps in the process are to...

Option 2

Question 3

Helpful Contact Information

The Office of Student Success, 432-294-4322
The Office of Career & Life, 432-294-4327
School of Nursing, 432-294-4348
School of Health Sciences, 432-294-4349
School of Business Administration, 432-294-4350

Option 1

Contact us

The Office of Student Success, 432-294-4322
The Office of Career & Life, 432-294-4327
School of Nursing, 432-294-4348
School of Health Sciences, 432-294-4349
School of Business Administration, 432-294-4350

Option 2